We invite you to attend the 35th annual Distance Teaching & Learning Conference sponsored by the University of Wisconsin-Madison Continuing Studies Division. The conference will take place from Tuesday through Thursday, August 6-8, 2019 in Madison, Wisconsin, USA. We hope you are able to join your colleagues at this international event on distance education, online teaching, and training. Delegates to this conference will represent various professions in higher education, PK12 education, military, government training, health care, business and industry, and non-profit organizations.

We are in the process of planning our program for August, but to view the conference archives of last year's program, go here: <https://dtlconference.wisc.edu/2018/>. This may help you and your administration understand the scope and breadth of this annual event. This year's program will have more than 130 session offerings, including optional workshops and blended certificates.

NOTE: We are unable to offer funding for registration costs or any other attendee expenses since we are a non-profit, self-supporting unit within the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Please email disted@dcs.wisc.edu if you have any questions. We look forward to your participation in this year's conference, and we welcome any of your colleagues who may be able to attend. Thank you for your interest and support of our conference.

Sincerely,

Wendy Fritz, Conference Director
